

Attendance of courses for refugees at the Eberswalde University for Sustainable Development

Refugees are allowed to attend different courses at the Eberswalde University for Sustainable Development. The participation in lectures and workshops as a guest student is for free.

There are more than 30 courses of the following fields to choose from:

- Woodscience and Woodworking (German)
- Forest management (English)
- Tourism (German)
- Landscape planning (German)
- Sustainable Economy (German, partly English)
- Accounting and Funding (German)
- Map reading and geodata determination (English)
- Geo-information system (German)
- Soil science(German)
- Environmental education (German)
- Technical English Agriculture (English)

Interested? Let us know!

1. Call us, send us an e-mail or come and visit us!
Ms Vera Clauder, phone +49 (0) 3334 65-7143, studieren@hnee.de, Schicklerstr. 5 in 16225 Eberswalde
2. Come and visit us for a consultation meeting!
Here we talk about your preferred lectures and workshops and help you to complete the application for guest students.
3. Participation
Your application will soon be checked. After you receive a confirmation you can attend the wanted course.
4. Confirmation of Participation
After you have frequently visited the courses, the tutors will hand out the attendance certificate to you. As a guest student you are not allowed to take part in exams which means you can not acquire any ECTS credit points.

As a guest student you can establish new contacts with other students and tutors of the Eberswalde University for Sustainable Development. The university library is open for use free of charge as well (reading books and magazines, using PC-stations with Internet access, etc.).

If you have any questions, let us know!

Ms Vera Clauder, phone +49 (0) 3334 65-7143, studieren@hnee.de

Up-to-date information about this and other offers to be found online:

www.hnee.de/refugees